After a successful career in public relations, Mindy Pollack-Fusi switched her focus to freelance and creative writing. She writes regularly for The Boston Globe and has had "Coupling" essays in The Boston Globe Magazine. Previously, Mindy wrote a Bedford Minuteman column called "Personally Speaking" and published essays in "Chicken Soup for the Soul" books. She recently completed a novel and two memoirs.

Mindy opened "The Place" to inspire others to write their stories and achieve their writing goals in a supportive environment.

What is The Place for Words & Workshops?

It is an inspirational space for writers to meet their writing goals!

It is a place where high school seniors can work on their college application essay(s) with Mindy's one-on-one guidance. This service is called

CollegeApplicationEssayCoach.com and services folks online/outside of this area.

It is a place where Mindy enthusiastically leads creative writing groups—memoir and fiction—to encourage others who have always wanted to write. She especially seeks out those who want to write but think they can't. (She'll happily prove them wrong!)

The Place for Words & Workshops is also where Mindy can produce your organization's promotional materials or your personal history!
